In Fire Emblem Engage, there are two primary types of promotions: basic promotions and advanced promotions.

1. Basic Promotions

Basic promotions occur when a character reaches the maximum level of their current class, usually level 20. To promote a character, players often need to obtain specific items like a Master Seal or a Second Seal.

- Master Seal: Used to promote most classes to their advanced tier.
- Second Seal: Allows characters to reclass and promotes them to a different base class without level restrictions.

2. Advanced Promotions

Some characters have access to unique advanced promotions that further enhance their abilities. These can require different items or conditions based on the character's storyline or unique traits.

- Special Items: Certain advanced promotions may require items like the Hero's Crest or other unique materials.

How to Promote Your Characters

Promoting your characters efficiently is crucial for success in the game. Here's a step-by-step guide to ensure you're promoting your units effectively.

Step 1: Level Up Your Characters

Before promoting, characters must reach level 20 in their current class. Focus on the following strategies:

- Utilize Experience Boosts: Use items or features that can boost experience gain, like the Engage system or specific skills.

Step 2: Obtain Promotion Items

Step 3: Choose the Right Time for Promotion
