The First World War (1914-1918)

Origins of the War

The First World War, often referred to as World War I, had its roots in a complex web of political alliances, nationalism, militarism, and imperialism. Key factors include:

1. Militarism: European nations were heavily armed and engaged in an arms race. Countries like Germany and Britain built large navies, while others expanded their armies.
2. Alliances: A series of alliances divided Europe into two main blocs:
 - The Triple Entente: France, Russia, and Britain
 - The Triple Alliance: Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy
3. Nationalism: Ethnic groups sought independence and nations aimed for dominance, leading to tensions, especially in the Balkans.
4. Imperialism: Competition for colonies heightened rivalries, particularly between Britain, France, and Germany.
5. Assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand: The immediate catalyst for the war was the assassination of the Austro-Hungarian heir on June 28, 1914, by a Serbian nationalist, which triggered a series of diplomatic crises.

Major Events

The war commenced on July 28, 1914, and lasted until November 11, 1918. Key events during this period include:

- The Battle of the Marne (1914): This battle marked the end of German advances into France and led to trench warfare, which defined the Western Front.
- The Gallipoli Campaign (1915-1916): An Allied attempt to secure a sea route to Russia that ultimately failed, resulting in heavy casualties.

- The Battle of Verdun (1916): One of the longest battles in WWI, where French forces faced off against German troops, symbolizing the war's attrition strategy.
- The United States Enters the War (1917): The U.S. joined the Allies, providing fresh troops and resources that helped tilt the balance in favor of the Entente Powers.
- The Armistice (1918): The war concluded with an armistice on November 11, 1918, leading to the Treaty of Versailles in 1919.

Origins of the War

3. Expansionist Policies: Adolf Hitler's invasion of Poland in September 1939 marked the beginning of the war, as it prompted Britain and France to declare war on Germany.

4. Appeasement: European powers initially adopted a policy of appeasement, allowing Hitler to annex territories without facing repercussions, which emboldened further aggression.
