Introduction to Hosidius Favor

Hosidius favor is a unique mechanic within the game of Old School RuneScape, representing the player's standing and respect within the Hosidius region. This kingdom, located on the southern peninsula of Great Kourend, is characterized by its Mediterranean-inspired architecture, fertile farmlands, and a distinct culture. Earning favor within this kingdom is not merely a cosmetic achievement; it directly unlocks significant content and provides tangible benefits that can greatly enhance a player's progression through the game.

The process of gaining Hosidius favor involves engaging in various activities that contribute to the prosperity and well-being of the kingdom. These activities often align with the kingdom's primary industries and needs, such as agriculture, resource gathering, and even defense against external threats. Players will find that many of these methods are also excellent for training various skills, making the favor grind a potentially rewarding experience in terms of both progression and profit.

Why is Hosidius Favor Important?

The importance of Hosidius favor cannot be overstated for players aiming to fully experience the content within Great Kourend. At 100% favor, players gain access to the Hosidius Kitchen, a vital location for high-level cooking training, and the Hosidius Meat Shelf, which allows for accelerated composting. Furthermore, reaching certain favor milestones unlocks access to unique prayer training methods, special equipment, and even parts of quests that are otherwise inaccessible.

Beyond practical benefits, Hosidius favor is a prerequisite for many desirable activities. For instance, gaining favor is essential for unlocking the favour of other Great Kourend houses, which are all interconnected and often require a certain level of standing in one to progress efficiently in another. This interconnectedness means that focusing on Hosidius favor early on can pave the way for a smoother overall progression through the entire Kourend region.

Moreover, the benefits extend to combat and item acquisition. Certain gear pieces and access to specific areas within Hosidius are gated behind favor levels. This means that dedicated players will find that their efforts in gaining favor directly translate into more options for combat training, bossing, and acquiring unique rewards that cannot be obtained elsewhere.

Methods for Gaining Hosidius Favor

There are numerous ways to accumulate Hosidius favor, catering to different player levels, skill proficiencies, and preferred playstyles. Understanding the most efficient methods for your situation is key to a swift and less tedious journey towards 100% favor.

Farming Grapes

One of the most popular and often profitable methods for gaining Hosidius favor is by farming grapes. This involves planting and harvesting specific types of grapes at various farming patches across Great Kourend. The most efficient method typically involves utilizing the Hosidius farming patches and ensuring you have high farming levels to maximize your yields.

Players will need to plant sweetcorn, potatoes, or other suitable crops at the appropriate farming patches. The yield of these crops, and thus the favor gained, is directly tied to the quality of the farming patches used and the player's farming level. Utilizing the Hosidius farming guild and its improved patches can significantly boost the rate at which favor is gained. Some players even opt to plant high-level crops like dragonfruit or magic trees in addition to grapes to maximize their overall profit and experience.

Composting

Another significant method for earning Hosidius favor involves the use of compost. Players can assist the Hosidius kingdom by preparing compost for their farmlands. This activity primarily utilizes the Farming skill and can be quite click-intensive but offers a steady stream of favor.

The process involves gathering compost ingredients, such as plant matter and supercompost, and depositing them into designated compost bins within the Hosidius region. The higher the quality of compost used (from regular compost to ultracompost), the more favor will be awarded per deposit. Players with higher Farming levels can also utilize the Hosidius Meat Shelf, which allows for accelerated composting, significantly speeding up the favor gain process.

Woodcutting

Woodcutting offers a more relaxed, albeit potentially less AFK, method for gaining Hosidius favor. Players can chop down trees within the Hosidius region, with certain types of trees and locations providing more favor per log cut.

Teak trees and mahogany trees located within the Hosidius area are generally considered the most efficient for favor gain. Players can also choose to use a Woodcutting guild if they have the requirements. While not as click-intensive as composting, it still requires consistent attention. Some players combine this with other activities like fishing or fletching to optimize their time.

Fishing

For players who enjoy fishing, there are several spots within Hosidius that offer favor. The specific types of fish caught and the fishing locations can influence the rate of favor gain.

Popular fishing spots include the various docks and coastal areas within Hosidius. Players can fish for tuna, swordfish, sharks, and other common fish. The favor gained from fishing is generally lower compared to other methods, but it can be a good supplementary activity for those who prefer a more passive approach to favor accumulation. Some players opt to fish at the Hosidius docks while also engaging in other activities nearby.

Cooking

The Hosidius Kitchen, once unlocked at 70% favor, becomes an incredibly efficient location for cooking training and also grants favor. Players can cook raw ingredients at the Hosidius cooking range.

While cooking itself does not grant favor, the act of using the Hosidius cooking range, especially with certain recipes and ingredients, contributes to the kingdom's prosperity and therefore grants favor. High-level cooking, such as cooking wines or pies, can yield a decent amount of favor over time. It's important to note that this method is most effective once you have a significant amount of favor already, as it requires access to the kitchen.

Skeletal Horror Minigame

The Skeletal Horror minigame, accessible through the "Skeletal Horror" quest, offers a unique way to gain Hosidius favor. While not a primary method for most players, it can provide a small but consistent boost.

Participating in the minigame, which involves fighting a boss and completing certain objectives, rewards players with favor upon successful completion. The amount of favor gained is not substantial, but it can be a nice addition for players who are already doing the quest or enjoy the minigame itself.

Wintertodt

The Wintertodt is a PvE boss located in the northern part of Great Kourend. While primarily a Firemaking training activity and a source of valuable loot, it also contributes to Hosidius favor.

Each supply crate received from completing a Wintertodt game has a chance to contain a small amount of Hosidius favor. While this is not a direct or significant way to grind favor, it is a passive benefit for players who regularly engage in Wintertodt for its other rewards, such as experience and useful items.

Other Minor Methods

Beyond the primary methods, there are a few other minor activities that can contribute to your Hosidius favor. These include:

- Assisting in the construction of buildings within Hosidius.
- Completing certain small tasks for NPCs in the region.
- Participating in specific events that may occur within Hosidius.

While these methods offer very small amounts of favor and are generally not efficient for dedicated grinding, they can be a pleasant way to gain a few extra points while exploring the kingdom or completing other objectives.

Maximizing Hosidius Favor Gain

To truly optimize your Hosidius favor gain, several strategies can be employed. The most crucial aspect is to choose a method that aligns with your current skill levels, available resources, and preferred playstyle. For players with high Farming levels, composting with ultracompost and utilizing the Meat Shelf is often the fastest method.

If you prefer a more relaxed approach, woodcutting teak and mahogany trees can be a good choice, especially if you can find a less crowded world. Combining activities is also a key strategy. For instance, you might fish while waiting for your crops to grow, or chop wood near a bank to deposit logs efficiently. Investing in the right gear, such as a farming cape for faster travel to farming patches or a woodcutting axe that provides bonuses, can also make a noticeable difference over time.

Furthermore, understanding the favor mechanics is vital. Some activities grant favor more rapidly at higher proficiency levels. For instance, better farming yields translate to more favor, and more efficient composting methods provide a greater reward. Always aim to use the highest tier of resources or the most efficient techniques available to you for any chosen method.

Finally, consider the overall efficiency of your chosen method in terms of both time and potential profit. Some methods, like farming grapes, can be profitable, offsetting the time spent. Others, like composting, might require an initial investment but provide a faster rate of favor gain. By carefully weighing these factors, you can craft a personalized and highly effective Hosidius favor grind.

Conclusion

Mastering the art of gaining Hosidius favor is a significant step in your Old School RuneScape journey, opening doors to a wealth of content and progression opportunities within Great Kourend. Whether you choose the farming routes, the diligent work of composting, the relaxed pace of woodcutting, or the engaging challenges of minigames, each method offers a path to achieving the coveted 100% favor. By understanding the intricacies of each activity and implementing smart strategies for optimization, you can ensure a smooth and rewarding experience as you earn your standing within the Hosidius Kingdom.

Q: What is the fastest way to get Hosidius favor in OSRS?

A: The fastest methods for gaining Hosidius favor generally involve high-level Farming activities, specifically ultracomposting and utilizing the Hosidius Meat Shelf. If your Farming level is lower, consistent grape farming or concentrated woodcutting of teak and mahogany trees can also be very efficient.

Q: Do I need to complete a quest to start gaining Hosidius favor?

A: No, you do not need to complete any specific quests to start gaining Hosidius favor. Most favor-granting activities can be accessed from the beginning of your time in Great Kourend, although some methods, like the Hosidius Kitchen, require a certain favor percentage to unlock.

Q: Is Hosidius favor profitable?

A: Some methods for gaining Hosidius favor can be profitable. Farming grapes, for example, can yield a decent profit depending on market prices. Woodcutting can also be profitable, especially if you are cutting higher-tier trees. Composting and other less profitable methods can be offset by their speed of favor gain.

Q: Can I get Hosidius favor from any activity in Great Kourend?

A: While many activities within Great Kourend contribute to the favor of different houses, only specific actions within the Hosidius region grant Hosidius favor. Focusing on activities directly related to Hosidius's industries, such as farming, fishing, and woodcutting within its borders, is key.

Q: How much favor can you get per hour with the fastest methods?

A: With optimal setups and high skill levels, the fastest methods for Hosidius favor, such as ultracomposting or highly efficient grape farming, can yield upwards of 40,000 to 60,000 favor points per hour. This can vary significantly based on player efficiency and in-game conditions.

Q: Are there any early-game methods for Hosidius favor?

A: Yes, for early-game players, activities like fishing at the Hosidius docks, chopping normal trees in the region, or basic composting are accessible. While slower than late-game methods, these allow you to start building favor from a low level.

Q: Does my combat level affect how much Hosidius favor I gain?

A: Your combat level generally does not directly affect the amount of Hosidius favor you gain from most activities. Favor gain is primarily tied to the skill you are using for the activity (e.g., Farming, Woodcutting) and the efficiency of the method chosen.

Q: What is the Hosidius favor requirement for the Shayzien Palace?

A: Hosidius favor itself does not directly impact your standing in Shayzien Palace. However, gaining favor in different Kourend houses is interconnected. Some players choose to level Hosidius favor first, as it unlocks useful training methods that can help with other houses later.

Q: Can I lose Hosidius favor?

A: In Old School RuneScape, there are no standard ways to lose favor with the Hosidius Kingdom once it has been earned. Favor is a permanent accumulation.
