The game utilizes a unique token matching system where players must align different types of tokens to achieve specific goals. There are several token types, including hearts, talent, and sexuality tokens, each contributing differently to your score. Additionally, the game operates on a turn-based system, where players have a limited number of moves to achieve their dating goals. This adds a layer of strategy, as you must carefully plan your moves to ensure you can impress your date within the given constraints.

Character Preferences and Traits
